

Local Art Students Wow City Council with Electric Bus Design

High school art students and teachers, who worked on a year-long project to design a wrap for SMART's two new electric buses, were all smiles after their design concept received praise and the unanimous support of City Council.

Students commissioned by SMART to design a vinyl wrap for the City's two new electric buses got an "A+" from City Council members, who approved their design at a December meeting.

The bus design features several iconic Wilsonville locations, including the Clock Tower at SMART Central and McMenamins Old Church.

Mayor's Message

SMART Revs Up for Big Year In 2019, Services to be Enhanced, Two New Buses Scheduled to Arrive

With the start of a new year, one of City Council's top priorities is establishing the City's legislative agenda, which guides policy positions during the 2019-20 session of the Oregon legislature.

Near the top of the list is our desire to support development of the City's transportation and transit infrastructure. Investing in alternatives to automobile use is a crucial step in mitigating the impact of growth on our roadways, providing efficient and cost-effective travel along the I-5 corridor and ensuring that no one is restricted from enjoying everything the City has to offer.

In 1989, Wilsonville had the foresight and wherewithal to establish South Metro Area Regional Transit (SMART) to provide residents, employers and their commuting workforce with better-quality public transit service. Thirty years later, the City is reaping wonderful benefits from a locally operated system that connects the North Willamette Valley with the greater Portland area, and provides a viable alternative to car travel.

Each month, SMART provides 25,000 passenger trips, covering more than 45,000 miles. That's more than 300,000 passenger trips annually, many benefiting Wilsonville's older adults and people with disabilities who rely on SMART's Dial-a-Ride, medical trips and shuttle services.

SMART's clean, well-maintained 30-vehicle fleet provides fare-free service at 183 stops throughout Wilsonville, and also offers fare service to/from South Portland, Salem, Tualatin and Canby.

This summer, SMART anticipates taking ownership of two 35-foot electric buses, federally funded by grant awards earned in 2017. Next year, a third grant-funded electric bus is scheduled to arrive. These state-of-the-art vehicles are not only improving the experience for riders, they position SMART to reach aggressive alternative fuel goals, 50% by 2022 and 100% by 2028.

A new funding source is allowing SMART to increase service levels in 2019. With the implementation of the "Keep Oregon Moving" bill, Oregon workers now contribute 0.1 percent of wages to support transit services, supplementing the foundational support provided by local businesses. You can expect expanded service hours and additional connections to inter-city destinations soon, informed by annual rider surveys and extensive outreach to give the community a voice in how its local service operates.

SMART's results speak for themselves. In our most recent community survey, no City function scored higher — relative to other municipalities — than transit. A resounding majority of residents, 83 percent, rated SMART services as excellent or good.

Wilsonville is fortunate to have a transit system that is the envy of communities throughout Oregon. We will continue to advocate for additional funding and improvements — including expansion of West-side Express Service (WES) commuter rail transit service and extension of service to Salem — to make our great system even better.

Tim Knapp, Mayor

A new 600-seat performing arts theater would benefit the Wilsonville High School choir and other performers. A theater is among the projects being considered should the West-Linn Wilsonville School District's Board pursue a capital bond.

School District Finalizes Project List Ahead of Possible Capital Bond

The West Linn-Wilsonville School District's Long Range Planning Committee (LRPC) is recommending seven projects to the district's Board of Directors for inclusion should the board decide to pursue a capital bond.

The LRPC identified these projects after analyzing 10-year demographic and enrollment projections, reviewing the district's recent high school study, considering community feedback and updating the long range plan.

The proposed projects cost an estimated $206.8 million; they are not being recommended in any order or priority. Further discussion was scheduled to take place at a Jan. 28 meeting of the school board.

The district's financial consultant, Piper Jaffray, indicates that a bond of that amount would not raise the current tax rate for West Linn and Wilsonville residents, staying below the $3 per $1,000 threshold that residents currently pay.

Several recommended projects directly impact Wilsonville schools, including:

Safe and Welcoming Schools

Following direction from the School Board Safety Advisory Committees, the proposed project would include school building renovations for secure school entrances; classroom lockdown hardware; shelter-in-place curtains; and intrusion-limiting glass. Those improvements would be made for all 16 WLWV schools.

Expanding Opportunities and Addressing Capacity at Secondary Level

Currently, the district has three high schools — West Linn High School, Wilsonville High School, and the smaller Arts and Technology Options High School. Enrollment projections show that West Linn High School could eclipse 2,000 students while Wilsonville High School will approach 1,700 students by 2028. Concurrently, the lease for Arts and Technology High School expires in 2022, requiring the district to find a new location.

To accommodate enrollment projections at the high school level, and to expand learning opportunities for students, the proposed project would renovate the current Athey Creek Middle School building to accommodate an expanded and redesigned third high school. All three district high schools would include Career Technical Education and course expansion opportunities.

An 850-student Athey Creek Middle School would be built on the district's Dollar Street property, bringing it into West Linn so that students can walk and bike to school while addressing middle school enrollment projections.

Wilsonville High School Auditorium Addition

This project would construct a new 600-seat performing arts theater at Wilsonville High School similar to the performing arts center at West Linn High School. The theater would be adjacent to the performing arts entrance constructed under the 2014 capital bond. The project would convert the existing auditorium, stage, and arena theater into instructional space, increasing total building capacity. Additional parking would be added where the existing soccer field is located, adjacent to the gyms.

Addressing Growth at the Primary Level

New housing developments in Wilsonville are impacting enrollment projections, indicating the need for a new primary school in the near future.

The project would include a new primary school with an initial capacity of 350 students, with room for a future buildout to approximately 550 students. The school would be located on the district's 10-acre property in Frog Pond where the CREST Farm was previously located.

Wilsonville’s Art Students Deliver SMART a Dazzling Design for Two New Buses

A mid-December City Council work session offered a rare departure from the usual staff reports, questions and Council deliberations.

Youthful energy was on display, and a few nerves evident, as six high school art students presented the results of a year-long collaboration with SMART. Commissioned by the transit agency to design artistic wraps to dress two new electric buses, the students walked through their artistic process during a 10-minute presentation and revealed the stunning result of their efforts.

I keep hearing how astounding the presentation was. One colleague told me she was fighting back tears.

“They just knocked it out of the park,” said Elli Work, Grants and Programs Manager for SMART. “I keep hearing how astounding the presentation was. One colleague told me she was fighting back tears.”

The presentation elicited a “Wow!” from Mayor Tim Knapp, and more kudos from each of the councilors present.

“I’m really happy (that SMART commissioned you to do this) instead of paying a consultant or artist from outside the city,” said Councilor Scott Starr. “I don’t know that we would have gotten much better artwork if we had.”

Wilsonville High School art teacher Christopher Shotola-Hardt and Arts & Technology High School art teacher Philip Glass mentored the students who participated in the project, a collaboration among the two schools and SMART. Working with the City provided a great opportunity for students to get a unique glimpse into real-world problem solving.

“It was an eye-opener for them,” said Shotola-Hardt. “With a fine art project, they are in control of their own work. There comes a point where they can say ‘I’m finished.’ When we’re working with a client, it goes through reviews and revisions. There’s a grind to it.”

The students met weekly. Over course of the project, that grind whittled the original project team down to just eight who saw the project to its finish and whose names will appear on the bus. They are Leilani Bautista, Vianey Bautista, Jasleen Kaur Bhullar, Elaysia Gates, Eleanor Karrick, Angelica Maldonado, Maximilian McGuire and Mason Wright.

“There were heated discussions about what it could be or should be. The group worked on countless drawings, concept drawings, critiques,” said Shotola-Hardt. “SMART was really drawn to four ideas they’d like to see slammed together. I told them this was typical for a graphic designer, to present several directions and have the client choose.”

The final design incorporated iconic Wilsonville locations — including the Graham Oaks tree, Mc-

Menamins Old Church, the Clock Tower at SMART Central — painted in water color by Bhullar, using gradients of SMART green.

Having the fortitude to finish the project, the courage to present it to City leadership, and the talent to have their design supported unanimously by Council inspires confidence that can inspire students long after the school-year ends.

“It’s palpable,” Shotola-Hardt said. “The kids were just beaming, floating on air, after the presentation. When they came back to school the next day, several said they watched the presentation twice before they went to bed. They’re proud.”

New Literature Class: America’s Founding Writers

The United States has always been a rambunctious, deeply divided nation — and the writers in this 6-week course surely represent (and explore) those divisions from the Colonial period through the American Revolution.

Retired English professor Dr. Bill Thierfelder leads this engaging class with a focus on the writings, music, and art of this period in history.

Sign up at the Circulation Desk to reserve your seat!

The class is held Sundays, 1:30-3 pm, Feb. 10 through Mar. 31 (no class Feb. 24 or Mar. 17).

The $30 cost includes all text materials.

Bring Food for Fines in February

Reduce or eliminate library overdue fines by bringing in cans or boxes of food during the month of February.

Each can or box of unexpired food will be worth a one dollar credit on overdue fines, subject to the approval of library staff.

All food will be donated to Wilsonville Community Sharing for the assistance of needy area families.

Please check expiration dates carefully! The food bank cannot accept or use expired food.

The food bank prefers donations of:

- canned goods (fruit, tuna, hearty soups)
- cereal (hot or cold)
- jelly or jam (sorry, we can’t accept homemade)
- NO RAMEN
- NO DAMAGED or EXPIRED ITEMS

POLICE CHIEF'S CORNER

A Month of Enforcement and a Way to Report Safety Concerns

This month, I'd like to share a few of the most common traffic-related incidents requiring Wilsonville Police Department assistance. I hope this list, and the tips that follow, serve as a reminder to drive safely.

Police Chief Rob Wurpes

In December, our officers investigated/responded to:

- 388 traffic stops
- 44 parking complaints
- 24 commercial truck inspections
- 9 traffic crashes
- 6 arrests for Driving Under the Influence (DUI)

Inclusive of all these incidents, 291 citations were issued over the course of the month.

The photo is from a recent crash in which unsafe speed was a contributing factor. Hopefully, this serves as a reminder to slow down! Speed limits are there for your safety.

Some other safe driving tips to remember:

- Understand safe following and braking distances
- Avoid distracted driving, particularly cell phone use.
- Pay attention to traffic signs and lights
- Use your turn signal
- Be patient and predictable
- Keep your vehicle in good working order

In addition to following the rules of the road, there's a new way you can help us keep City streets safe. We are excited to announce our new Traffic Concerns Team (TCT).

Many of us have complaints or concerns about various traffic issues in our community. We want to make sure we understand where the problem areas are, so we can respond as quickly and efficiently as possible. The TCT takes a multi-disciplinary approach, involving City Engineering, Public Works, and Police to review and address these concerns.

Have a concern you'd like to share? Visit ci.wilsonville.or.us/traffic-concerns. From the City website, visit the 'Resources' tab under Report/Complaint or Concern. Receiving information via this online form allows us to track complaints and respond in a timely manner. Our TCT team meets monthly to review new complaints; we use data and historical knowledge to collectively identify the best response.

Thanks for helping us help you stay safe!

Robert Wurpes, Chief of Police

Unsafe speed was a factor in this December traffic accident in Wilsonville. Slow down, don't drive distracted and follow the rules of the road!

Last year, a Community Opportunity Grant supported a Wood Middle School educational trip to Washington D.C.

City, County Grant Programs Accepting 2019 Applications

Wilsonville Parks and Recreation is now accepting applications for a grant program that provides $25,000 in funding for local organizations to support an array of projects providing benefit to community groups, residents and visitors to Wilsonville.

The Community Opportunity Grant Program provides $25,000 funding each year for a wide range of local programs and projects that promote education, diversity, arts or community involvement in the city. The Parks and Recreation Advisory Board reviews requests and distributes awards twice annually. Applications are due Friday, March 1. Funds for the Opportunity Grant program come from the City's general fund.

In partnership with Clackamas County, an additional grant source is available for projects and events that attract visitors to Wilsonville.

The Clackamas County Community Partnership Grant, in partnership with Clackamas County Tourism, awards funding to local tourism projects that aim to increase the numbers of tourist visitors and the economic impact of tourism. Up to $20,000 is available for projects that increase overnight lodging stays in Clackamas County, bring visitors into communities from greater than 50 miles away to shop, dine, recreate, take in arts or cultural offerings, or visit heritage sites and entice visitors to "linger longer." The application deadline is Thursday, Feb 28.

We welcome Sheilagh Griffin to the SMART team. As a Transportation Demand Management Technician, Sheilagh's focus will be developing and implementing Safe Routes to School programs for youth in collaboration with Wilsonville schools. Sheilagh works with school officials to help students walking and rolling to and from school safely.

Sheilagh brings 10 years of Safe Routes to School experience in Portland as parent volunteer, bicycle and pedestrian safety instructor, program manager and local and statewide program director. She is a very enthusiastic participant in active transportation.

Her professional background includes working with youth and families to help them be successful in school and in life. She does not own a car, rides her bike everywhere, loves being outdoors and exploring on foot or on bike. She bikes for transportation, fun and competition. Sheilagh is looking forward to meeting Wilsonville community members and learning about the opportunities for walking, biking and rolling to school for students of all ages.

Be a Vital Link in the Chain of Survival for Cardiac Patients

Tualatin Valley Fire & Rescue's commitment to communities includes working with community partners to strengthen the chain of survival for cardiac patients.

TVF&R offers hands-only CPR training, encourages law enforcement partners to respond to cardiac emergencies equipped with automated external defibrillators, and invites community members willing to perform CPR to download TVF&R's free PulsePoint smartphone app to be alerted when someone is in need of this lifesaving assistance.

We believe that the strength of an entire community fighting side by side will ultimately prove to be more powerful than the nation's No. 1 killer — heart disease.

February is American Heart Month. Join us in raising awareness of the signs and symptoms of a heart attack and the importance of immediately calling 911 in the event you or someone nearby experiences symptoms.

Unlike a sudden cardiac arrest that strikes suddenly and includes a loss of consciousness, a heart attack can develop slow enough that you are not aware you are having a medical emergency. A heart attack occurs when the blood flow that brings oxygen to the heart muscle is severely reduced or cut off completely.

Symptoms typically include:

- Chest discomfort in the center of the chest that lasts for more than a few minutes or goes away and returns. It can feel like uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, fullness, or pain.
- Upper body discomfort, such as pain or discomfort in one or both arms, the back, neck, jaw, or stomach.
- Shortness of breath before, during, or after other discomforts.
- Other signs, including breaking out in a cold sweat, nausea, or light-headedness.

The most common heart attack symptom for women and men is chest pain or discomfort. However, women are more likely to experience other symptoms, particularly shortness of breath, nausea or vomiting, back or jaw pain, pressure in the lower chest or upper abdomen, dizziness, fainting, or extreme fatigue.

The heart is a muscle that can deteriorate with each minute you delay medical treatment. Don't ignore symptoms, and don't drive yourself to the hospital.

Firefighters often hear heart attack patients say, "I wasn't sure it was a heart attack," or "I didn't want to bother anyone."

Remember, TVF&R crews are here for you. Our highly trained firefighter paramedics can diagnose a heart attack and start treatment right away. Crews can also relay your EKG information to the hospital, enabling its staff to activate special heart teams and prepare for your arrival.

A heart attack can cause sudden cardiac arrest, when the heart malfunctions and stops beating unexpectedly. Sudden cardiac arrest leads to death when the heart stops working properly. This can be reversed if CPR is performed and a defibrillator is used to shock the heart and restore a normal heart rhythm.

Studies show that CPR can double or triple a cardiac arrest patient's chance of survival, but only 46 percent of those who suffer cardiac arrest outside of a hospital get bystander help, according to the American Heart Association.

Every minute CPR is delayed, the chance of survival decreases by 10 percent. Your assistance in performing hands-only CPR until crews arrive can make a difference. Hands-only CPR has just two easy steps: Call 911 and push hard and fast in the center of the chest to the beat of the disco song "Stayin' Alive."

For more information about PulsePoint, symptoms of cardiac emergencies, and CPR training, visit tvfr.com. Thank you for your willingness to team up with our crews to save more lives and create a safer community.

CPR can double or triple a cardiac arrest patient's chance of survival.

Fire District Names Next Chief

Deric Weiss has been tabbed by the Tualatin Valley Fire & Rescue Board of Directors to succeed Chief Mike Duyck when Duyck retires in June.

"We are confident that Chief Weiss will continue vital work and innovation on behalf of the people we are honored to serve," Board President Clark Balfour said of Weiss, one of many internal candidates who participated in assessment activities, listening sessions and interviews for the position.

Chief Weiss has held many ranks at TVF&R in 24 years, including lieutenant, captain, battalion chief, division chief and assistant chief. Most recently, he has overseen the District's emergency operations.

Weiss will work alongside Duyck during the transition, focusing on district policy, funding, deployment and strategic goals. Both chiefs will also be visiting with city councils and community groups.

Weiss has an associate degree in fire science and is in the process of obtaining his bachelor's degree. He holds numerous certifications in emergency operations and is an Oregon-certified Emergency Medical Technician.

Living Well with Diabetes: A Free Workshop Series

Are you living with diabetes or caring for someone with diabetes?

Clackamas County is hosting "Living Well with Diabetes," a six-week workshop. You will discover tools that can improve your health and outlook on life.

Facilitators share techniques & tools to help you take charge and feel better living with your condition. Living Well workshops are fun and interactive. Participants learn to use self-management skills to fight fatigue, problem solve, make decisions and reduce stress.

Participants will experience ways to:

- Use positive thinking, breathing and relaxation
- Develop healthy eating habits and meal plans
- Discover the physical activity that's right for you
- Communicate effectively with others
- Get tips about medication use
- Prevent and monitor low blood sugar
- Manage foot care and pain
- Prevent or delay complications
- Brainstorm solutions to challenges and barriers
- Make weekly action plans

This workshop series is provided at no charge, but pre-registration is required. Classes are Wednesday mornings, Mar. 6-Apr. 10, 9-11 am, at the Parks and Recreation Admin building.

Clackamas County Sheriff's Office Hosts Personal Safety Seminar

Join Wilsonville Parks and Recreation and the Clackamas County Sheriff's Office on Tuesday, Feb. 5, 10 am, at the Community Center for a Personal Safety Seminar.

Learn about the top crimes that affect citizens and gain an understanding of what makes us potential targets for criminals.

The presentation covers the three "As" of personal safety in our home, vehicle, office and public places. There is no charge for this seminar; please call to pre-register.

Dog Run Public Input Meeting

On Tuesday, Feb. 12, 7 pm, at the Community Center, Wilsonville Parks and Recreation is hosting a presentation on the new Dog Run, to be located near the Community Garden at Memorial Park.

The presentation includes findings from survey results and discusses possible future amenities. Participants can review and comment on a proposal to establish a Friends of Wilsonville Dog Run group to help with volunteer efforts and coordination.

Partner Yoga Workshop

Just in time for Valentine's Day, the Partner Yoga Workshop on Sat., Feb. 9, 2-3:30 pm, offers you and your loved one a great opportunity to connect with each other while practicing a variety of partner yoga poses that build strength and improve your body's flexibility. Come to this workshop with your spouse, partner, sibling, child or friend. No prior yoga experience is needed; please bring your own yoga mat.

THE NEW VISION FOR TOWN CENTER

For two years, the Wilsonville Town Center planning team has engaged with residents, employees and business owners to identify a vision that reflects the community's priorities.

In March, that plan goes before the City's Planning Commission for review. The project team is confident the Plan's recommendations are responsive to the needs of our active, diverse community.

The Plan's community-driven priorities:

- Community Gathering Places
- Environmental Stewardship
- Harmonious Design
- Economic Prosperity
- Mixed Uses
- Safe Access and Connectivity

A 20-to-40 Year Plan

Once adopted by the Planning Commission and the City Council, the new Town Center Plan will guide future development of about 100 acres in and around the Town Center Loop.

Expect implementation of Plan recommendations to happen incrementally, over several decades. During intervals when a thriving economy spurs development opportunities, the City will seek collaborations with motivated builders who share our community-driven vision. Over time, this transformation will yield the new hub and heart of Wilsonville, a vibrant and walkable destination that inspires people to come together and socialize, shop, live, and work.

"I have been working in the Portland region for over 40 years. Sometimes, I am amazed how we underrate our own communities. There is much more development potential here than anyone thinks, said Fred Bruning of CenterCal at the City's Economic Development Summit event.

Bruning emphasized placemaking and gathering spots as two of the most important components of a successful town center.

"It's a matter of finding that magic place that is unique to Wilsonville. You have to create the special place first, that will exponentially increase the choices you will have later for better growth."

This rendering demonstrates one example of what a reimagined Town Center could look like in 20 years, including thoughtful street connections, new mixed-use buildings and a "main street" with retail options and gathering places.

Thank You

Years from now, residents and business owners can stroll through Town Center taking great pride in the crucial role they played in imagining the City's ultimate destination.

The Wilsonville Town Center Team appreciates every community stakeholder who took the time to contribute ideas to this project. Thank you for thinking big and for sharing your desires with our project team at more than 100 focus groups, public meetings, and outreach events.

"Thank you for showing up," said Town Center Planning Manager Miranda Bateschell, "for talking to us when we came to your schools, neighborhood meetings and citywide events, for volunteering to serve on the project's task force. People in Wilsonville care passionately about this community; that's why this process worked and this Plan will be successful."

Check Out the Plan

If you haven't already, we invite you to view the Draft Plan online:

ci.wilsonville.or.us/towncenterplan

Provide comments and download the complete Draft Plan at the project website (wilsonvilletowncenter.com) or, for more information, email Miranda Bateschell, Planning Manager, at Bateschell@ci.wilsonville.or.us.

You are also invited to check out the Plan and project photo gallery at the Town Center Plan Showcase at City Hall on Wednesday, Mar. 13, 5-6 pm, before the 6 pm public hearing with the Planning Commission.

"The Chamber's experience participating in the Wilsonville Town Center Task Force has been a true example of 'best practices' on how to conduct public involvement and participation. We feel the business community's ideas and concerns have been voiced through an open and transparent public process that offered new innovative ways to solicit community feedback."

Kevin Ferrasci O'Malley
CEO, Wilsonville Area Chamber of Commerce

"One of the very special things about our community is the care and kindness shown by our community members. Through this process, people have contributed their ideas for gathering places and voiced the importance of iconic placemaking sites to facilitate human connection. Seeing these ideas woven into the plan has been exciting. This plan isn't just about streets and buildings, it's about people."

Kristin Akervall
Wilsonville City Council President

"The Town Center Plan Task Force process was one of the most engaging and hands-on experiences I have had with a project such as this. The amount of input received from citizens and business owners — through informational meetings, public events and online surveys — was incredible. It helped the Task Force feel confident in our recommendations to the Planning Commission and City Council. I look forward to watching the Town Center evolve into a vibrant city center."

Kyle Bunch
Agent, American Family Insurance

"I have enjoyed observing and sharing in the extensive community involvement the City utilized to develop the new plan for Wilsonville Town Center. And now we look forward to the plan transforming the area into a hub for living, working, playing, dining and shopping."

Bruce Eicher
Owner, Wilsonville Diamond

"It's a matter of finding a place where placemaking hasn't occurred yet. Finding what is that magic place that is unique to Wilsonville. Through the Town Center Plan, Wilsonville is in a great position to create that special place which will exponentially increase the choices the city will have later for better growth."

COMMUNITY LEADERS SUPPORT THE PLAN AND THE PROCESS

"I want to commend the City and staff for expending the energy to create this plan through community input. The City understands how important it is to create a vision and master plan that can develop over time. The addition of residential units, we now understand, will allow the area to support more businesses creating a more diverse and interesting synergy."

Councilors Lehan, West Sworn-In to Begin New Terms Newest Councilor’s Political Aspirations Began in Support of Family

At the Jan. 7 meeting of the Wilsonville City Council, Municipal Court Judge Fred Weinhouse administered the Oath of Office to City Councilors Charlotte Lehan and Ben West, who began four-year terms in January after prevailing in November’s general election.

The swear-in ceremony is common practice for Lehan, who first joined the City Council in 1991, served for 12 years (1997-2008) as the City’s mayor, and rejoined the Council in 2015.

West joins the Council as a first-time elected official. He says his parents instilled the importance of civic engagement at an early age, but that he didn’t grow up harboring political aspirations.

His desire to influence change came later, when he and his partner, Paul Rummel, sought to build a life together.

“Paul and I got our start in politics because we saw the injustice of our family not being considered legitimate,” West said. “We were told we couldn’t be married, we’ve been told we couldn’t be dads. We were thrust into it because we found an issue that affected our family directly.”

West and Rummel fought for marriage equality and for changes in the state’s foster care system (their son JayQuan, 12, joined their family through the foster care system).

“We started a non-profit that advocated for legislative changes to benefit foster kids and the families involved in their care to try to fix this system that’s in crisis in Oregon,” said West. “We needed to advocate for these kids. Who else was going to do it? So we jumped in and did it.”

The Rummel-West family moved to Wilsonville in 2014, and quickly put down roots.

“It didn’t take long for us to fall in love with the community,” said West, a registered nurse.

He sought a seat on the Council, he said, because he wants to advocate for his neighbors, and believes Council service is a good fit for his skill set.

“I firmly believe we have a small enough city that we’re all neighbors,” West said. “We’re connected to issues that affect all of us. I’m excited to get into the fray, meet my neighbors, find out their concerns and advocate for those issues to make Wilsonville just a little bit better.”

After one meeting, West says he already has a new appreciation for the amount of work that goes into preparing Council to deliberate on complex issues facing the City.

“I was in awe of how well the City staff worked, very quickly and nimbly to advocate for citizens on the ‘5G’ issue and to put together the package they did. It was very impressive.”

Parliamentary procedure is still a work in progress. “Can I talk yet?” he joked. “Mayor Knapp and the other Councilors have been very gracious. Everyone’s understanding of the rookie in the room.”

He’s looking forward the challenge, he said, and has an understanding family in his corner.

“My family is on this ride with me, I’m not doing it alone,” West said. “It’s a sacrifice for all of us, but we’ve talked about it a lot, everyone is up for the work ahead.”

Akervall Elected Council President

Councilor Kristen Akervall has been elected to serve a one-year term as Council President.

Electing a new president was the among Mayor Tim Knapp’s first items of business during the Jan. 7 meeting after Councilors Charlotte Lehan and Ben West were sworn-in; Akervall’s predecessor as president, Scott Starr, no longer sits on the Council.

“I would be honored to serve in this role and continue the work of Council,” Akervall said, following her nomination.

Planning Commission Set to Review City’s Signage and Wayfinding Plan

On February 13, the Planning Commission is scheduled to consider the City’s Signage & Wayfinding Plan at a Public Hearing at 6 pm at City Hall.

The project provides Wilsonville with an integrated, visually-pleasing network of signage to guide residents and visitors to key locations within Wilsonville.

The City’s design partner, Alta Planning + Design, has spent the last few months refining elements of the corten and stone design most favored by those providing public input last summer.

“The design is warm and welcoming, and familiar to people because similar elements already exist within the city at other locations,” said Community Development Director Chris Neamtzu.

The plan identifies sign locations and demonstrates a plan to integrate the new design into the iconic off-ramp signs at Wilsonville Road. As sign types, shapes and sizes are being finalized, test signs will be fabricated for review.

If approved by the Planning Commission in February, the project to develop the City’s wayfinding signage would go to City Council for adoption this spring. If approved, the first phase of implementation is scheduled to begin this summer.

Basalt Creek Comprehensive Plan

Also at the Feb. 13 meeting, the Planning Commission will hold a public hearing regarding adoption of the Basalt Creek Comprehensive Plan and Transportation Plan Amendments.

The Cities of Tualatin and Wilsonville adopted the Basalt Creek Concept Plan in August 2018, which presents a unified framework for future development in the Basalt Creek Planning Area. The proposed Comprehensive Plan and Transportation Systems Plan amendments will reflect Wilsonville’s adoption of the Basalt Creek Concept Plan. The Comprehensive Plan map amendment will also include the Coffee Creek Industrial Area, reflecting the master plan adopted for that area in 2007.

Republic Services: Put Recycling in Bins

For a number of years, solid-waste hauler Republic Services picked-up curbside loose cardboard at no additional charge. Starting in 2019, Republic Services charges for extra recycling material placed curbside that does not fit in the cart. The Garbage and the Recycling Processing Surcharge rates are based on all trash or recycling items being placed in the appropriate bin for collection.

Protect Local Waterways — Only Rain Down the Drain!

Have you seen these ‘Don’t Pollute’ storm drain markers around town? Catch basins located along the street curbs collect rainwater and drain directly into local streams and the Willamette River.

Please contribute to the health of our local waterways. Remember – Only Rain Down the Drain! If you see someone dumping oil, grease or other pollutants down a drain, please contact Sarah Sand, Stormwater Management Coordinator, at 503-570-1552 or Public Works at 503-682-4092.

Notable Actions: City Boards and Commissions

City Council	Action	What it Means
Jan. 7	Council approved, on first reading at a public hearing, minor amendments to City Code (Sections 800-814) and adopted a resolution establishing design standards and application fees governing small wireless facilities located in the public right-of-way.	Together, these actions are intended to provide clear, objective guidelines for telecommunications companies developing the infrastructure to eventually offer improved “5G” small-cell wireless technology.
Dec. 17, Jan. 7	Council approved a zoning change for the developing Villebois neighborhood.	The change allows residential construction to begin on one of the neighborhood’s last undeveloped parcels. The planned 25-acre subdivision in the north-central area of Villebois includes construction of a regional City park.
Jan. 7	Council approved the amendment of a professional services agreement with Murraysmith, Inc.,	The amendment provides $160,000 for further engineering and design work on a proposed relocated wastewater pump station at Memorial Park, allowing engineers to mitigate unanticipated geotechnical issues at the site.
Dec. 17	Council approved the Boones Ferry Park Master Plan	The plan improves accessibility to the Willamette River waterfront, adds a dog park, parking and other amenities, guides development of new land acquired in 2017 and accommodates a landing site for the proposed French Prairie Bridge.
Dec. 17	Council continued, for one year, a temporary recycling surcharge approved in May 2018	The monthly $2.50 surcharge accounts for drastic changes in the international recycling market requiring garbage haulers to pay to dispose of recycled goods.

City Council Adopts Two-Year State Legislative Agenda

At the start of each two-year session of the Oregon legislature, the City Council adopts a State Legislative Agenda that guides how the City evaluates proposed legislation

The City's State Legislative Agenda is grounded in long-term City Council goals and adopted policies embodied in the City's Comprehensive Plan, Transportation Systems Plan and other master plans and strategy documents.

The City's agenda centers primarily on municipal issues of concern, such as maintaining local control, opposing unfunded mandates, supporting transportation improvements, and encouraging efficient use of public resources and infrastructure.

The City's agenda, which has remained focused and consistent over time, has helped to build the City's credibility at the legislature.

The City works with coalitions of organizations that share similar legislative objectives. The City coordinates closely with the League of Oregon Cities (LOC), Clackamas and Washington Counties, Port of Portland, Metro regional government, state associations of building officials, planners, economic-development managers and others.

To review the legislative agenda, visit ci.wilsonville.or.us/citycouncil or, for more information, on the City of Wilsonville's legislative priorities, contact Mark Ottenad, Director of Government/Public Affairs, at 503-570-1505; ottenad@ci.wilsonville.or.us.

Students Deliver for SMART

With their work finished, the group must wait patiently for the buses to arrive, at which time they'll tour Gillespie Graphics to see the vinyl graphics affixed to the buses. The buses are scheduled to be unveiled this summer.

"When people see the buses driving around, it says a lot about what we value in Wilsonville," Shotola-Hardt said. "We value families, education, our young people and their voices."

Previously, the City commissioned student artists to develop painted tiles for "Beauty and the Bridge." Shotola-Hardt said that, years later, students recognize the benefits that a collaboration of this nature provides.

"To have them come back, after graduating from college, and remind me 'Hey, remember when you pushed me to finish that? I'm so glad you did. Every time I go by, I look at that and I'm really proud that I was a part of that,'" Shotola-Hardt said.

He believes these projects serve as an important reminder of the value of art education.

"Art education is vital, and when it's out in the public eye people can see the depth of the work and now important it is," he said. "This is a huge piece of advocacy that will be driving on our roads. People will know it was done by students in our community. Those kids are our future, and look at the quality of the work they can do."

"When people see the buses driving around, it says a lot about what we value in Wilsonville."

Briefs

Check it Out! A "Library of Things" Soon Available at Wilsonville Library

Pay attention at your local library this summer. In addition to books, eBooks and DVDs, Clackamas County libraries are planning to make a variety of new "things" available for check out. Imagine checking out novelty cake pans, ukuleles, board games and more!

This collection of non-standard items, a "Library of Things," will be introduced this summer at eight Clackamas County public libraries, including Wilsonville. The project, in partnership with the county's Sustainability and Solid Waste program, promotes a more sustainable community.

"These collections support a growing trend of people downsizing and decluttering their lives from the 'stuff' we tend to accumulate," said Stacy Ludington with Clackamas County's Sustainability and Solid Waste program. "If 10 people share one item, the energy and resource consumption needed for everyone to enjoy it decreases significantly."

Hillsboro Public Library opened a Library of Things in 2015 that now hosts more than 200 items — including an air fryer, karaoke machine, and VHS to DVD converters. Beaverton City Library also recently opened a Library of Things.

"We don't need a lot of space to house these items because they're in such high demand, they're always checked out," said Michele Caldwell with Beaverton City Library. To manage demand, many libraries have multiples of popular items.

Wilsonville residents can offer feedback about the types of items they would like to check out at bit.ly/LibraryofThingsInput. Surveys can also be completed at the library.

For more information, call the library at 503-682-2744 or contact Shasta Barnes, Wilsonville Library Operations Manager, at 503-570-1597; barnes@wilsonvillelibrary.org.

CCC Leadership Course Begins Feb. 5

Leadership skills are vital for anyone looking to move up in their careers. To help new or mid-level leaders gain and refine the managerial skills needed to meet their professional goals, Clackamas Community College (CCC) is offering a new Leadership Essentials course, beginning Feb. 5.

Over 13 weeks, participants learn about communication, delegation, building and sustaining trust, resolving workplace conflict, maximizing team performance, goal setting, human resources essentials and addressing poor performance.

"Our leadership development programs at CCC will enhance the performance of leaders," Lisa Davidson, executive director of CCC Connections with Business and Industry, said. "This course will have a lasting impact on customers, employees and, ultimately, transform business." Participants meet with workplace mentors to review their learning and workplace application exercises. Upon completion of the course, participants receive an Oregon non-credit training certificate.

Leadership Essentials is taught by Tenora Grigsby, an experienced manager, coach, facilitator and trainer.

Classes run Tuesdays, Feb. 5 through mid-July, 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., at Clackamas Community College's Wilsonville campus at SE 29353 Town Center Loop

East. The cost is $1,995.

To register or for more information about this course or CCC's customized training and development services, call 503-594-3200 or email training@clackamas.edu.

Clackamas County Offering 8-Week Master Recycler Course

The regional Master Recycler course makes its once-a-year visit to Clackamas County in spring 2019.

Participants learn about recycling and waste reduction and use their knowledge to make an immediate positive difference in the community.

Offered only three times a year, this eight-week class meets once weekly and twice on Saturdays for half-day trips. The spring session starts Wednesday, April 3, and runs for eight consecutive weeks, at Clackamas County's Development Services Building, 150 Beaver-creek Road, Oregon City.

The popular course includes two field trips and instruction in topics such as recycling processes, composting, alternatives to hazardous household products, thoughtful consumption and green building. The course is a blend of presentations by professionals in the field, peer group discussion and project development.

Participants agree to attend all classes and field trips and, after completing the course, put their skills to work to help others conserve natural resources by volunteering 30 hours of public outreach. Master Recyclers work at information booths at community events, provide presentations in the community, work on original projects and inspire their neighbors and co-workers.

A $50 fee covers course materials. Limited scholarships are available. For more details and to apply, visit masterrecycler.org. Registration closes Wednesday, Mar. 6, at noon.

Rotary Honors 'Stars of Giving' at 2019 Heart of Gold Celebration

The 18th annual Wilsonville Rotary Club Heart of Gold Dinner and Auction is scheduled for Sat., Feb. 23, 5-9 pm, at Wilsonville Holiday Inn.

A silent auction opens at 5 pm, with the dinner, awards and live auction following at 7 pm.

The theme for this year's event is "Hollywood awards night"; attendees are invited to dress like stars and enjoy an evening honoring the "stars of Wilsonville," who give their time and resources to help make Wilsonville a better place.

Learn About the New Dog Run

Join Wilsonville Parks and Recreation on Tuesday, Feb. 12, 7 pm, at the Community Center for a presentation on the new dog run located near the community garden at Memorial Park.

The presentation includes findings from a recent survey, a preview of possible future amenities and a discussion about the establishment of a Friends of Wilsonville Dog Run group to help coordinate volunteer participation and engagement.

Public Open House to Preview New Charbonneau Utility Repairs

On Tuesday, Feb. 26, the City is hosting a public open house event for the Charbonneau Utility Repair: French Prairie Road and Old Farm Road Project, 6-8 pm at Charbonneau Clubhouse (Large Dining Room), 32000 SW Charbonneau Dr.

Charbonneau Utility Repair Open House
Tue, Feb. 26, 6-8 pm
 Charbonneau Clubhouse
 32000 SW Charbonneau Dr.

The French Prairie Road and Old Farm Road projects are the next phases in the Charbonneau Consolidated Improvement Plan, a 25-year plan to upgrade and improve deficient Charbonneau infrastructure, comprising sewer, storm, water, and street utilities. Improvements on French Prairie Road begin in summer 2019 and improvements on Old Farm Road and in the Arbor Glen neighborhood are scheduled for spring 2020.

At the open house, the design team is provide information regarding the construction limits, the type of construction, proposed alignments, and construction schedule for each project phase. Community members interested in the project are encouraged to drop in and talk with the project team to share their comments and concerns. Input from the open house is to be used to shape the sequencing and scheduling of the project and help to improve project communication.
