

Bubble Master vs OctoDad

Once upon a time there was a boy named Alex and his brother Colin. At night they become The Bubble Master and The Colinator. This night they went out into the city of Portland. Then they heard lots of horns honking. They raced over there and saw OctoDad. OctoDad was squirting cars with ink and the drivers couldn't see where they were going.

Bubble Master said "Stop, OctoDad! That's not nice."

OctoDad said "This IS nice. It's nice for me."

Bubble Master said, "You have to be kind to other people."

"Never!" said OctoDad and kept squirting cars on their windows.

Then Bubble Master went into his thinking bubble and floated higher and higher until he had an idea.

He popped his bubble and he fell back to the city. When he landed he pulled out a bubble blaster and blasted cleaning bubbles at everyone's windows so they could see.

"No!" shouted OctoDad and he charged at Bubble Master.

Then the Colinator said "Not tonight" and grabbed OctoDad and put him into a garbage can and shut the lid.

Then Bubble Master and Colinator popped into their bed bubbles and they floated back into their beds at home.

"Good night" said Alex to Colin.

"Yes it was!" said Colin and fell right to sleep.